Energy Efficiency Study

Prepared for:

Methodology

Methodology

- This study was conducted on the YouGov Galaxy Online Omnibus between 22-25 February, 2018.
- The sample comprises 1,000 Australians aged 18 years and older distributed throughout Australia, as follows:

NSW/ACT	317
Victoria/Tasmania	268
Queensland	210
South Australia	102
Western Australia	103

- Age, gender and region quotas were applied to the sample.
- Following the completion of interviewing, the data was weighted by age, gender and region to reflect the latest ABS population estimates.

— Key Findings

Main Findings

- Bill payers are much more likely to be concerned about the total size of their energy bill (79%) than the cost per unit of energy (11%).
- Nine in ten (90%) believe it is important that governments help reduce energy bills for households and businesses. This includes 63% that consider government assistance very important.
- Baby Boomers (71%) are more likely than Gen X (60%) and Millennials (51%) to consider government help to reduce energy bills very important.
- Those in low income households (69%) are more likely than those in higher income households (56%) to appreciate government intervention to reduce energy bills.
- The most popular actions governments could pursue are;

✓ Investing in energy efficiency	87%
✓ Regulating energy prices	83%
✓ Increasing the reliability standard for the grid	45%
✓ Intervening to stop coal-fired generators closing	42%
✓ Building/ subsidising new coal-fired generators	40%
✓ Reducing incentives for renewable energy	34%
- Investing in energy efficiency and regulating energy prices achieve widespread support.

- All other initiatives are more divisive and would incur political risk. For example, most Greens supporters (58%) are not opposed to paying a higher price for energy in order to reduce power interruptions. They are also most likely to oppose reducing incentives for renewable energy and storage (69%).
- In contrast, Coalition supporters are less concerned about reducing incentives for renewables and the majority would be in favour of governments intervening to stop coal-fired generators from closing (55%) and support the building of new coal-fired generators (56%).
- There is widespread support for a range of programs that have been introduced overseas. These include;
 - ✓ Strengthening minimum standards for new homes 89%
 - ✓ Energy companies to help households save energy 86%
 - ✓ Incentives to home-owners 86%
 - ✓ Governments funding upgrades to homes 84%
 - ✓ Letting people know how energy efficient a home is 83%
 - ✓ Setting minimum standards for rental homes 80%
- The level of support for all programs demonstrates a willingness in the community to look for ways to reduce their energy bills.

- Self-interest may still be observed in the finding that those over 65 years (93%) are more likely than Millennials (80%) to support governments funding upgrades to the homes of vulnerable people, like pensioners.
- Similarly, while 86% of renters support minimum standards for all new and existing rental homes the comparable figure among home owners is 76%.
- There is significant support for programs that would help businesses reduce their energy bills. This includes;
 - ✓ Requiring stronger efficiency standards for offices 83%
 - ✓ Incentives to companies that upgrade their building 79%
 - ✓ Grants to businesses that install energy-saving equipment 71%
 - ✓ Funding experts to help businesses save money 70%
- Nine in ten Australians (92%) support governments leading by example by upgrading public buildings like schools and hospitals to save energy. Most Australians (52%) would strongly support this initiative.
- Green supporters (66%) are most likely to strongly support governments leading by example to save energy but even among Coalition supporters around half (48%) strongly support the initiative.

— Detailed tabular findings

Tables

The tables of findings are set out such that they include the following details:

Base Weight Sample (000s):

The number of completed interviews has been weighted to reflect the latest ABS population estimates. These estimates are shown in thousands (000's). The percentages in the table are based on these weighted figures.

Weights:

This indicates that in order to reflect the latest ABS population estimates the data has been weighted by age, gender and region.

Filters (where applicable):

If the table is based on a subset of respondents then this will be titled as a Filter and accompanied by a description of the sample upon which the table is based.

Respondents:

These figures show the actual sample size, indicating the total number of respondents who were asked the relevant question.

	Action
	Investing in energy efficiency to lower homes' and business' energy bills	Reducing incentives for renewable energy and energy storage	Intervening to stop coal-fired generators from closing	Building or subsidising new coal-fired generators	Increasing the reliability standard for the grid. This could reduce power interruptions but also significantly increase bills	Regulating electricity prices, rather than letting energy companies set prices

	Governments funding upgrades to the homes of vulnerable people, like pensioners	Requiring energy companies to help households save energy, by providing subsidies for energy efficient lighting and equipment	Giving incentives to home-owners that upgrade the energy efficiency of their properties	Letting people know how comfortable and energy efficient a home is before they buy or lease it	Setting minimum standards for all new and existing rental homes to ensure that they are safe, comfortable and have low energy bills. For example, we could require that gaps around doors and windows are fixed to avoid letting too much cold or hot air in	Strengthening minimum standards for the construction of all new homes to ensure that they are safe, comfortable and have low energy bills
